

Dermatology

Marks and dermatological protuberances removal

Description:

Birth marks, dermatological protuberances and chronic calluses, all of these are formations which pose a possible threat to our skin. Even from the slightest pigment mark a tumor could develop thanks to the exposure to the sun or external irritation. This could endanger our lives. The opinion that to remove a mark is dangerous for the skin and could malignly proliferate is no longer valid. On the contrary, if the mark is often irritated by clothes or scratching, the above symptoms could develop.

Technologies:

Removal of derma and sub-dermatological items is a common surgical procedure. It does not cause any pain and could be done all year round under only local anesthesia. Thanks to the latest medical methods and with the assistance of the CO2 laser, the treated spot does not bleed, the wound heals quickly and without any complications. There is also a minimum risk of having scars. The entire removed items will be sent for further analysis to the lab so there is no risk of any neglected cure of any possible more serious disease and patient will be informed about results either by post or email.
